

trust

There is an elusive yet essential ingredient for getting work done well: trust. Leaders are often challenged to articulate the distinct actions and behaviors that allow them to generate higher trust relationships. They need a roadmap for how to understand and assess trust more concretely and to intentionally choose trust-generating behaviors.

At Strelo Group, we believe trust is a primary building block for powerful leaders and teams. If you've experienced trust, then you know it brings joy and connection. And, it accelerates results.

Trust: The Fuel for Getting Work Done Well workshop explores a powerful framework — The Three Dimensions of Trust — and strengthens your ability to create the changes you seek in relationships and work. Through this experience, you will increase your skills in assessing, building, and re-building high-trust stakeholder relationships, which enables you to better lead change.

OUR TRUST APPROACH EMBODIES THREE VALUES.

coherence

because we believe that individuals, teams, and organizations thrive when they function interdependently, and each can contribute to their fullest potential.

diversity & inclusion

because we believe the key to all sustainable and meaningful change comes from engaging diverse perspectives and insight.

collective wisdom

because we believe that the wisdom of any given group or team far exceeds that of any one individual in that group and also exceeds the sum of its parts.

WORKSHOP AT A GLANCE

Highly interactive learning environment

90 minutes to 4-hour workshop, customizable to each client's needs

Materials provided include proprietary tools, templates, and course materials

OUTCOMES FOR THIS WORKSHOP EXPERIENCE

Gain fresh insights into the relationship between trust and complex change

Learn how to apply the Three Dimensions of Trust framework to strengthen your relationships

Acquire deepened skills to enhance the critical trust dimension of benevolence

Be able to apply your learning to generate more trust, joy, and connection in your relationships and work

strelo®

strelogroup.com